Disposable Does Not Mean Flushable

The sewer system is designed to accept water, human waste and toilet paper. Toilet paper dissolves quickly in water. However disposable cleaning wipes, diapers, paper towels and other such items do not dissolve easily and may accumulate in the sewer system contributing to clogs and back-ups. As these items travel through the system they also get caught in the pumps and other equipment potentially damaging the equipment and leading to an overflow. Even if the label reads "flushable" it is still safer to dispose these items in the trash. So help protect the sewer system that serves your community and only flush what the system is intended for. Remember "Disposable Does Not Mean Flushable"

Town Celebrates 225th Birthday!

New Windsor is celebrating its quasibicentennial this year. That's a big word for the 225th anniversary of the town's founding in 1797. Back then, real estate entrepreneur and farmer, Isaac Atlee, had the town surveyed into 60' by 150' lots, dug a town well on the corner of what's now High and Main Streets, and named the new village after Windsor, England, a residence of the British Royal Family.

Atlee came to the region from Lancaster County, PA, attracted by the area's natural beauty, the mill power of Dickinson's Branch and Little Pipe Creek, the healing waters of three sulphur springs, and its position at a crossroads of two major colonial highways: the Shawan-Monocacy Road from Baltimore and the Buffalo Road from Annapolis. Early wagon traffic encouraged the town's growth and spurred businesses and industries, including a tavern and inn. Soon residents built churches, a school, and eventually a college.

Learn more about town history by visiting the New Windsor Heritage Museum at 207 Main Street. Watch this space for further news about how we plan to celebrate our big birthday, including sponsoring a town history quiz and scavenger hunt with fun prizes for the winners.

Carroll County Master Deputy Colussy Message

In your travels, have you ever encountered a homeless person? Did you know what to do? Did you acknowledge them, or did you look the other way? Did you offer them money, food, clothing or a blanket? As homelessness in America is growing, according to 2017 statistics, there are approximately 553,742 individuals experiencing homelessness every night in the United States, according to the National Alliance to End Homelessness. Right here, in Carroll County, there are homeless individuals living in shelters, encampments and their cars. I am part of the Homeless Outreach Team, which consists of representatives from the Human Services Programs and the Carroll County Health Department. At least twice a month, the Outreach Team and I attempt to locate homeless individuals throughout the county. Our mission is to offer them services in Carroll County to end their homelessness.

The Carroll County Human Services Program served 325 individuals through their Coordinated Entry program. Of those people, 231 were considered households which included 257 adults and 68 children. Out of those households, 45% of them transitioned to permanent housing and 21% of them entered increased income housing. Individuals who enter the Coordinated Entry program are either currently homeless or will be within two weeks. The goal of the Coordinated Entry program is to work to get people housed or keep them housed. For those that cannot be housed, the participant then enters their shelter system.

What about the participants who entered the Human Services Programs shelter system? The breakdown for those participants according to last year's statistics are the following:

Family Shelter served 69 total participants: 29 adults and 40 children, 44% exited to permanent housing

- Adult Only Shelter served 119 total participants: 79 men and 40 women, 56% exited to permanent housing
  - Night-by-Night Shelter served 89 participants, 5% exited to permanent housing, 37% transitioned into Adult Shelter
  - Temporary COVID-19 Shelter, operating from November 3rd to March 31st, served 100 participants, 8% exited to permanent housing, 36% transitioned into permanent HSP shelters
  - The temporary shelter opened has also served as a Day Center for our street homeless, providing access to meals, showers, laundry, and case management services, 166 participants served
- Services provided safe, stable on-going support for 271 unique participants, 224 households

Helpful tips for when you meet a homeless person.

1. Listen to your personal instincts. You should always put your safety first. If you feel uncomfortable in a particular situation, then don't feel guilty for not engaging them.
2. Remember that these individuals are people. Yes, that may sound crazy but remembering that the individual is human is important. Try to engage them in conversation by making small talk, as this may remind them that they are worthwhile and can radically brighten up their mood.
3. Take a moment for personal stories. People experiencing homelessness may have little social contact. If they are willing, ask them to share some part about their lives. This may take a few minutes out of your day, but it can greatly assist in improving their mental health. Just remember that it's important not to ask too many personal questions.
4. Don't be afraid to offer them assistance by offering them food, water, personal hygiene products, clothes or spare change. Purchasing requested products could relieve their anxiety. However never provide them with a ride or offer them a place to stay since these types of services already do exist.
5. Carry along items to hand out to people. These items could include snacks, hand warmers, hand sanitizer, or bottles of water. It is important to ask the individual if they want the item and if they decline the offer, respect their decision.

Avoid offering unsolicited advice. People may offer individuals experiencing homelessness advice they think is helpful, such as pointers about who is hiring or how individuals could make themselves more attractive to employers. Many people experiencing homelessness who are on the street are likely dealing with several hurdles, such as finding safe and reliable shelter before they can even think about employment. If, however, during conversation, a person experiencing homelessness mentions looking for employment, then it would be appropriate to suggest local job-readiness organizations and other resources. Pointing these individuals toward long-term support goes a lot further than offering piecemeal advice, even if well-intentioned.

If you know someone that is currently homeless or about to become homeless, please feel free to contact the Human Services Programs or myself for assistance. If you would like to know more about the Human Services Programs, please check out to their website at <https://hspinc.org/>. As always, stay safe out there and be kind to one another.

For more than 30 years, Human Services Programs (HSP) of Carroll County, Inc., has served as Carroll County's Community Action Agency – leading the fight against poverty.

“HSP gives HOPE, inspires CHANGE, and provides OPPORTUNITY by mobilizing our community in the fight against poverty,” said Scott Yard, executive director of HSP. “That’s our mission statement. We believe with the right supports in place, everyone can embrace hope, make meaningful changes, and capitalize on opportunities that will lead them to a fulfilling and self-sufficient life.”

HSP provides county-wide services throughout Carroll to meet basic human needs: shelter, housing, utility assistance, eviction prevention, integrated case management, family support, economic mobility, which includes Opportunity WORKS – the agency's re-entry pre-employment training services, and financial education.

Assisting nearly 7,000 low-to-moderate income residents annually, nearly all of the County's low-income population is served through one or more of HSP's programs. HSP was founded in 1987 as a shelter for homeless women and children by the late Sylvia Canon Haines. Haines had a gift for seeing the gaps in services available to the community, while rallying the right people to address those needs. “We continue to honor Sylvia's legacy by embracing the philosophy of “filling in the gaps” for our Carroll County neighbors, while mobilizing our community” Yard said. “In doing so, our programming has significantly grown and diversified throughout the years to address varying needs.”

For instance, every tax season, HSP's Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Site prepares free tax returns for low-to-moderate income households. An IRS-sponsored, volunteer-based program, VITA promotes taxpayer education, accessing vital tax credits, as well as saving your refund. HSP's VITA Site ensures participants keep all of their hard-earned money by offering free tax preparation, free direct deposit and US savings bond options.

HSP's deep-rooted connection to the community enables HSP to take the lead in developing programs and linkages that fill identified service gaps. Partnering with more than 60 state and local organizations, HSP is the community's greatest advocate for the at-risk, low-income population. HSP's programs are designed to address the root causes of poverty, as well as compliment and leverage public services, while guiding low-income households toward a path to self-sufficiency. “Poverty is multifaceted; there is not a singular look to it,” Yard said. “It takes a village to lift a person out of poverty. That's why our integrated service-delivery model is so important. We also take great pride in our partnership with the local Carroll County governments and Citizens Services.”

If you or someone you know can benefit from one or more of HSP's services, or would like to join the fight against poverty, call 410.857.2999 or visit www.hspinc.org.
